

Meet Anthony!

Meet Hunter “Anthony,” a resilient, fun-loving loyal soft-spoken young man with a great sense of humor and an infectious grin that lights up the room.

Anthony loves Oreo cookies, Oreo cookie ice cream, Oreo cookie Blizzards and anything else you can think of that pairs well with Oreo cookies. He also has a ferocious appetite for pepperoni pizza. Anthony's favorite activities include building and collecting all kinds of Lego Sets, playing video games, watching movies, and hanging out with people he cares about.

Anthony's favorite class in school is orchestra, as he has a passion for the violin and enjoys music. Anthony is very relational and deeply invests in his friendships, family, and adult relationships. He enjoys spending quality time doing various activities but building Legos and looking at old photos with others are favorites on his list. Anthony desires to maintain as many connections with friends. His ultimate goal is to become a police officer someday.

Anthony would do well in either one or two parent home. He thrives with a family who can give him clear realistic expectations and boundaries up front, are patient and soft-spoken with him, and are willing to allow him to maintain consistent contact with his biological grandmother and other extended family members. A family would also need to remain engaged in trauma therapy and be willing to work closely with Anthony's team to set appropriate behavioral goals for him. Anthony does best being the only or youngest and having older siblings but will consider younger children and enjoys being a big brother. He doesn't mind having pets in the home if there are any and would enjoy helping care for them. Due to Anthony's strong bonds with his biological family, his team only recruits in-state families.

Anthony was born in 2009.
