Meet Aaron!

Aaron is an easygoing, kind, and respectful kid who brings calm, positive energy wherever he goes.

He gets along well with others and shows genuine consideration for people around him. Aaron has a laid-back personality, but knows when to be responsible and thoughtful, making him a joy to be around at home, school, or in the community. In his free time, he loves football—especially the Kansas City Chiefs—riding his bike, playing video games, and watching TV. His favorite snacks include Dr Pepper and blue Takis, and Wingstop. Aaron also enjoys listening to rap and country music.

School isn't always his favorite place, but Aaron shines in subjects he enjoys. He has a strong interest in math and science and is a fast learner. He especially likes hands-on activities and has developed a growing passion for working on cars. Aaron dreams of one day becoming a mechanic, where he can use his problem-solving skills and curiosity to fix and build things.

Aaron hopes to find a loving, stable home with a mom and a dad where he can feel supported and valued. He is open to having siblings and would likely do best with one or two older siblings who can serve as positive role models. He loves pets, though he isn't a big fan of cats. Aaron would thrive in a home that is structured, consistent, and balanced with fun and connection. He would do especially well with caregivers who provide a calm and emotionally supportive environment and who are patient, compassionate, and nurturing as they encourage him to grow, build confidence, and reach his full potential.

Aaron was born in 2011.
